FROG LOGIC

The ADHD Money Kit

A gentle UK budget planner for busy brains: bills, direct debits, council tax, payday and the "do I really need it?" moment

Printable pages, cut-out cards and colour-in trackers. Made in the UK by a neurodivergent maker.

You don't have to do all of this

Money is hard for a lot of ADHD brains. In a 2022 Monzo and YouGov survey, people with ADHD were four times as likely to impulse spend often (48% compared with 12%) and much more likely to miss payments (49% compared with 18%). The people it affected put the extra cost at around £1,600 a year. That isn't a character flaw. It's working memory, time blindness and a brain that wants the good feeling now.

This kit doesn't ask you to become a different person. It gives the important stuff somewhere to live outside your head.

The 10-minute start

1. Fill in What comes in (one page). Just the dates and rough amounts.
2. Fill in What goes out automatically: your direct debits. Your banking app has the list.
3. Copy those dates onto This month's bill calendar and stick it where you'll see it.
4. Cut out the Wait 24 hours card and keep it with your phone or bank card.

That's it. Everything else is there for when you have the spoons.

On a low day

Use only the Money low-spoons day page. One thing done is enough.

This kit is a set of planning pages. It isn't financial advice. If money is getting on top of you, free, confidential help is on the Free help page at the back.

MONEY IN

What comes in

Pay, benefits, maintenance, side income. Rough amounts are fine. The date matters most.

Where it comes from	How often	Usual date	About how much

How my money arrives

☐ Monthly ☐ Every 4 weeks ☐ Fortnightly ☐ Weekly ☐ It changes

Paid every 4 weeks? That's 13 paydays a year, not 12, so one month gets two. Mark which month that is here:

Payday to payday

Lots of ADHD brains find it easier to budget from one payday to the next than by calendar month. My budget runs from the

to the

MONEY OUT

What goes out automatically

Direct debits and standing orders. Open your banking app and copy them in. Most apps have a list called "Direct debits" or "Scheduled payments".

Bill	Date it leaves	Amount	Paid from Rent / mortgage
Council tax
Energy (gas / electric)
Water
Phone
Broadband
TV licence
Insurance

Council tax

Council tax is usually split into 10 monthly payments, so two months of the year are council-tax free. If that's hard to plan around, councils can spread it over 12 months instead. Ask your council. My council tax months:

PRINT ONE A MONTH

This month's bill calendar

Month: _____ Write in the dates, then the bills and paydays. Colour bills in one colour and paydays in another.

Mon	Tue	Wed	Thu	Fri	Sat	Sun

The danger days

The days when lots goes out before payday. Keep enough in the account for these.

Reminders set?

- ☐ Phone reminder 2 days before big bills
- ☐ Low-balance alert on in my banking app
- ☐ Calendar stuck where I'll see it

THE SNEAKY ONES

Once-a-year bills

The bills that only come once a year are the ones that ambush busy brains. Write them all here, then divide each by 12 to see what to put aside each month.

Bill	When it's due	How much	÷ 12 = each month
Car tax
MOT / service
Car insurance
Home / contents insurance
TV licence (if yearly)
Memberships / subscriptions
Birthdays and Christmas
Pet insurance / vet

Total to put aside each month

THE BUDGET

Three pots

A budget with forty lines is a budget an ADHD brain abandons in a week. This one has three pots. Many banking apps let you make "pots" or "spaces" so the money is actually separated.

1. Bills pot

Everything on the "goes out automatically" page, plus a twelfth of the yearly bills.

£ _____

2. Everyday pot

Food, travel, toiletries, the dog, the bits you buy every week.

£ _____

3. Frog pot

Fun money, guilt-free. Spending it is the point, not a failure.

£ _____

The sum

Money in £ _____

minus Bills pot £ _____

minus Everyday pot £ _____

minus Frog pot £ _____

= Left over £ _____ (savings, a buffer, or a bit more breathing room)

If the sum doesn't work, that isn't your fault and it isn't a test. Shrink the Frog pot a little, look at subscriptions on the next page, or use the Free help page. Don't shrink the Frog pot to zero: budgets with no fun in them get abandoned.

TEN MINUTES, ONCE

Subscription check

Free trials that turned into payments are an ADHD classic. Go through your bank statement and list every regular payment to an app, streaming service, box or membership.

What it is	£ a month	Last used	Keep / pause / cancel

Starting a free trial?

Set a phone reminder for two days before it ends, right now, before you close the page. Write it here too:

FIVE MINUTES A WEEK

Weekly money check-in

Same day, same time, with a drink you like. Pair it with something you already do, like Sunday's cup of tea.

My check-in time: _____

Not now, but soon

Money jobs you thought of but don't need to do this minute: forms, refunds, phone calls.

THE IMPULSE CATCHER

The 24-hour lily pad

Wanting something right now is a feeling, and feelings pass. Park it here instead of the basket. If you still want it tomorrow, and it fits the Frog pot, buy it with a clear head.

The thing	£	Parked on	Tomorrow: still want it?
			☐ Yes ☐ No ☐ Wait longer
			☐ Yes ☐ No ☐ Wait longer
			☐ Yes ☐ No ☐ Wait longer
			☐ Yes ☐ No ☐ Wait longer
			☐ Yes ☐ No ☐ Wait longer
			☐ Yes ☐ No ☐ Wait longer
			☐ Yes ☐ No ☐ Wait longer
			☐ Yes ☐ No ☐ Wait longer
			☐ Yes ☐ No ☐ Wait longer
			☐ Yes ☐ No ☐ Wait longer

Bonus: add up everything you crossed off with "No". That's money you kept.

CUT OUT AND KEEP

Spending decision cards

Cut along the dashed lines. Keep one by your laptop, one in your purse and one on the fridge. Read it before you press "buy".

Wait 24 hours

Is it still in my basket tomorrow? Then it's a want, not a whim.

Keep this with your bank card

Need or feeling?

Do I need the thing, or the feeling of buying the thing?

Where would it live?

Can I picture exactly where it goes at home?

Have I got one?

Do I already own something that does this job, maybe in a drawer?

Which pot?

Bills, Everyday or Frog pot? If it's none of them, it waits.

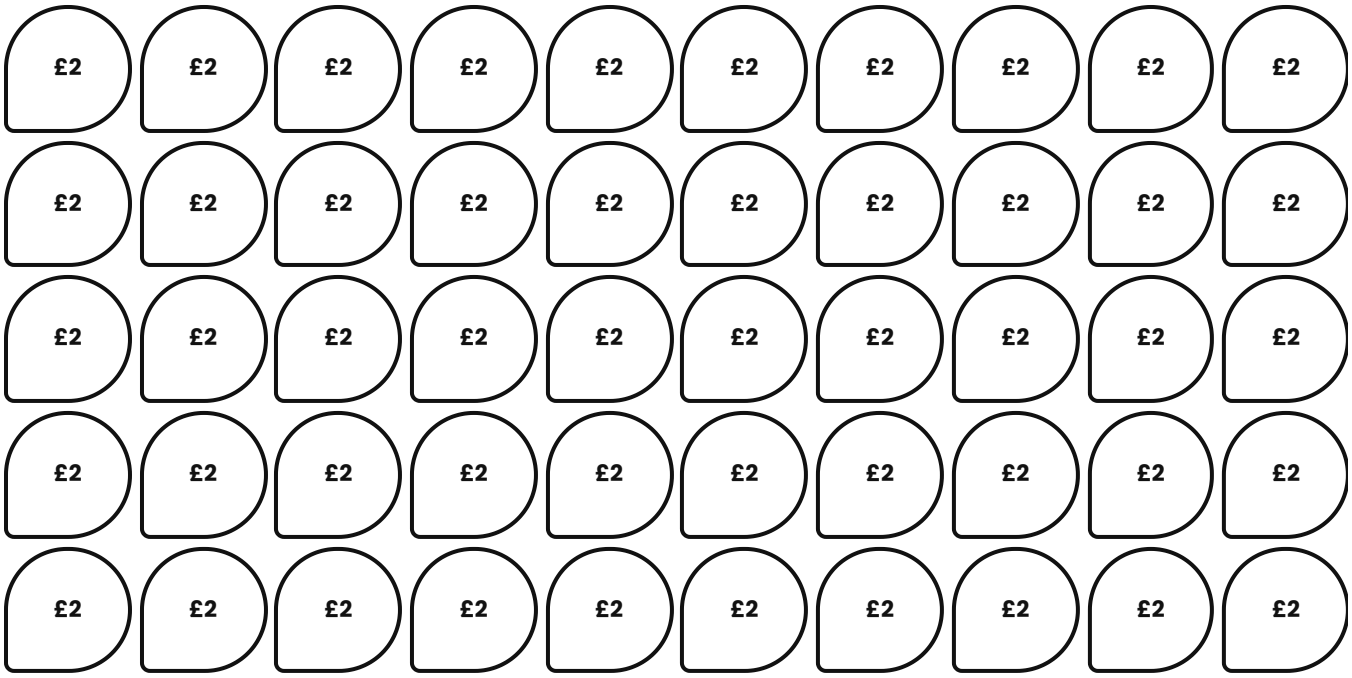

Hours of my life

This costs ___ hours of work. Still worth it?

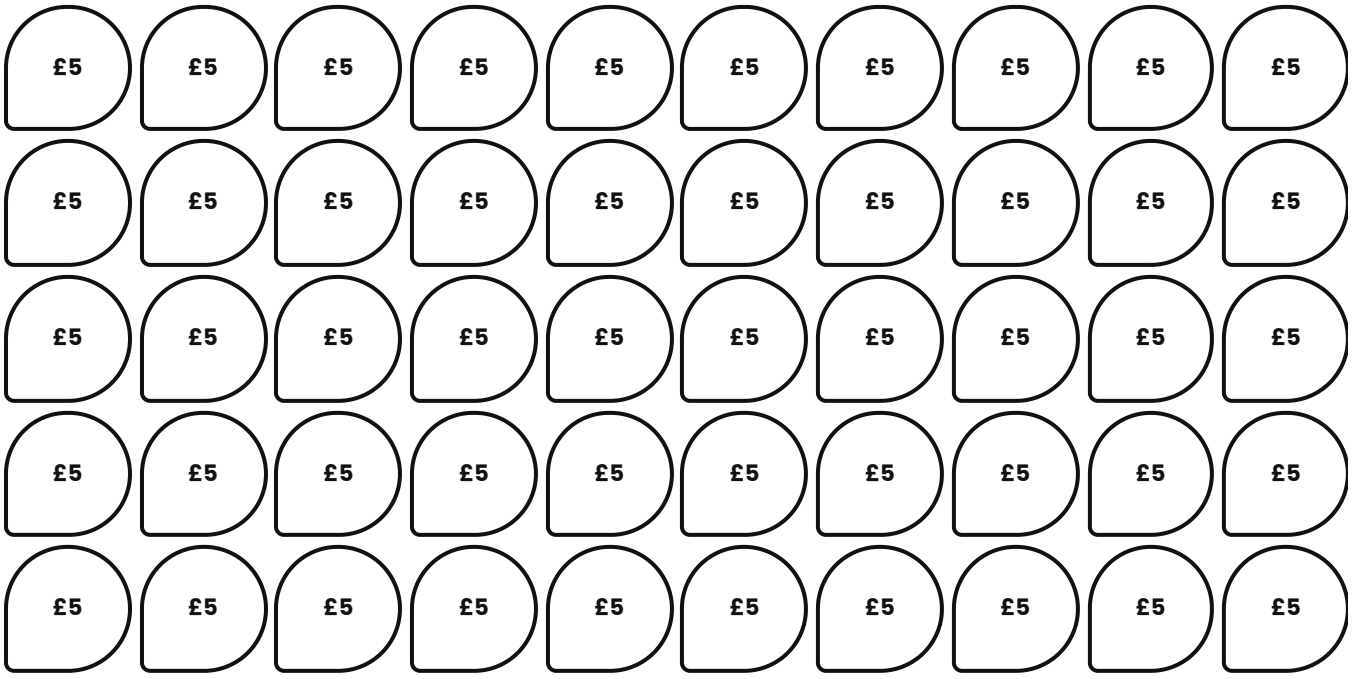

COLOUR ONE IN EACH TIME

Lily pad savings tracker: £100

Saving for: _____ Started: _____

£250

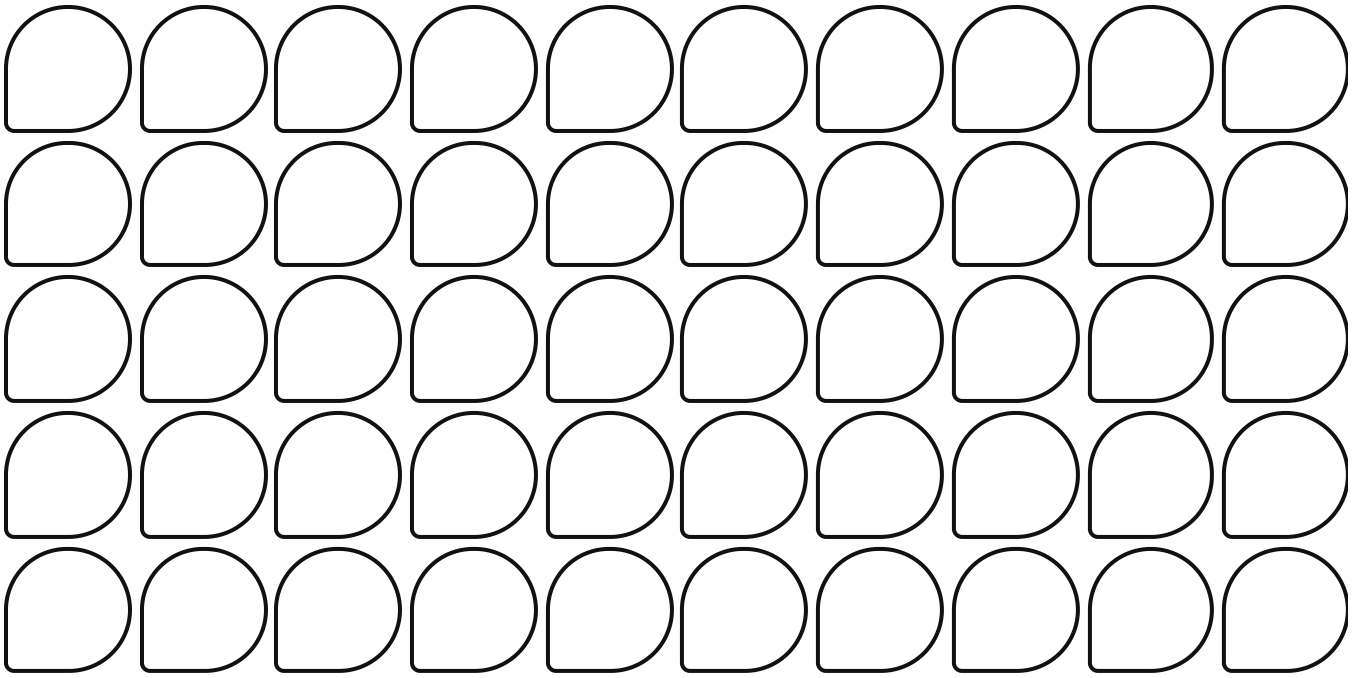

Small amounts count. Colour a pad every time you move money into savings, even on a hard week.

MAKE YOUR OWN

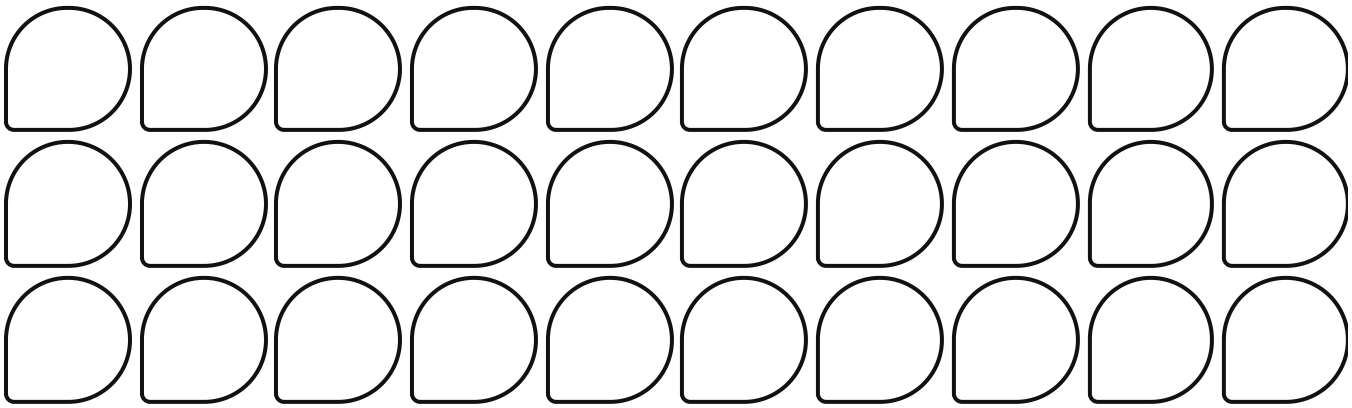

Lily pad tracker: any goal

Goal: _____ Total £ _____ ÷ 50 = £ _____ per pad

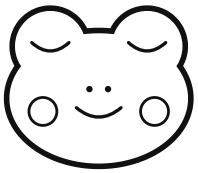

Emergency buffer

A small buffer, even £100, means a surprise bill is a nuisance rather than a disaster. Write a number on each pad that adds up to your target.

ON A HARD DAY

Money low-spoons day

Pick one thing. Then stop. That counts.

- [ ] Open the banking app and just look. No fixing.
- [ ] Check one thing on the bill calendar is right.
- [ ] Park one want on the 24-hour lily pad.
- [ ] Cancel one subscription I don't use.
- [ ] Move £1 to savings and colour a pad.
- [ ] Open one letter. Just open it. Reading can wait.
- [ ] Ask someone to sit with me while I do one money job (body doubling).

Money is hard. You're doing it anyway.

IF IT'S ALREADY HAPPENED

I've missed a payment

It happens to almost half of people with ADHD. The shame makes it tempting to ignore, and ignoring is what makes it expensive. Here's the calm order to do things in.

1. Breathe. One missed payment is fixable.
2. Find out what it was: who, how much, when it was due.
3. Contact them soon. Most companies would rather sort it out than chase you. You can often do it by web chat or email if phone calls are hard.
4. Pay it, or agree a plan. Then set a reminder so it doesn't happen next month.

A script you can copy

"Hello, I've missed my payment for [account number / bill]. I'd like to sort it out. I can pay £____ on [date]. Can you confirm that's OK, and can you tell me if there are any charges? I find phone calls difficult, so email is best for me."
